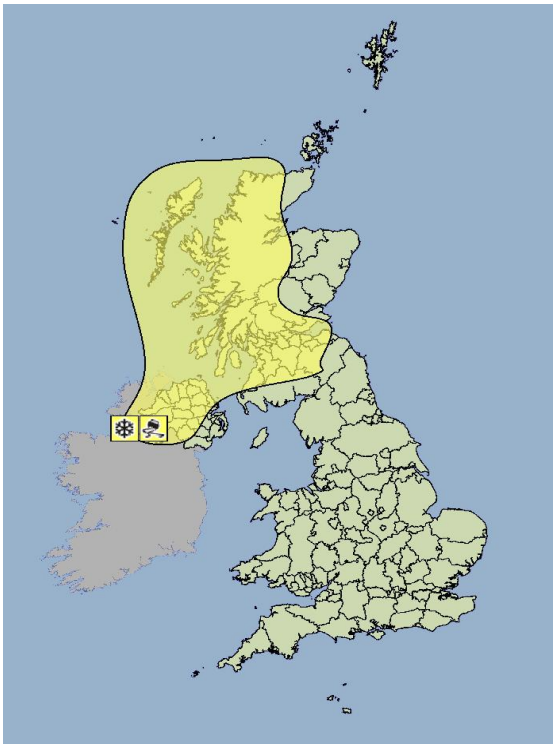
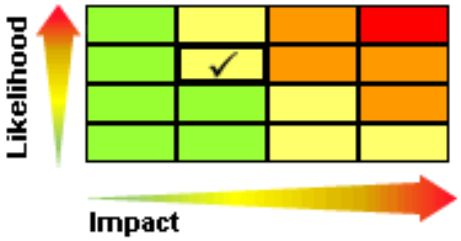
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Air of Arctic origin will bring frequent wintry showers across the area. 1 to 3 cm snowfall is likely across many areas above 100-200 m away from west-facing coasts whilst 5 cm or more is likely to settle above around 300 m.

Showers will continue through Tuesday, though lying snow is expected to melt below 300 m or so.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 20:00 on Mon, 20th Mar 2017 until 10:00 on Tue, 21st Mar 2017

Showers on Monday evening, overnight and into Tuesday morning will fall increasingly as snow and hail, with accumulations mainly on hills but locally to lower levels too. Ice is also likely to form on untreated surfaces, whilst lightning may be an additional hazard. This may lead to some transport disruption and difficult driving conditions.
